At any time during your search, if you want to switch the type of home to review, just choose a different facility type using the top menu bar. Other facility types include:

- Nursing Homes. Licensed as nursing homes by the state and/or certified for Medicaid/Medicare by the federal government, these residences provide personal care, such as assistance with eating, bathing, grooming and personal hygiene and nursing care. Some offer more extensive rehabilitation on a short- or long-term basis.
- Supportive Living Facilities. These homes, also referred to as Adult Care Facilities, provide room, board and personal care for individuals who need assistance with daily living.
- Residential Treatment Facilities. These rooms and board are provided to persons with mental illness. They all require a referral from a hospital, mental health agency or practitioner.

After choosing to search for Assisted Living, the site will display a page titled “Nursing Homes, including short-term rehabilitation.” The page has a great deal of information to help you in your search – tips on selecting a nursing home, how they’re licensed, how to pay for nursing home care and who to call for help in selecting or to report a problem.

To begin your search, click the red button called “Click here to search for Assisted Living \(RCF\) Facilities.”

TIP: If you frequently search for assisted living homes, this might be a good page to bookmark to return in the future.

Assisted Living (Residential Care) Facilities

Assisted living combines a home-like setting with personal support services to provide more intensive care than is available through home care services. Assisted living homes provide older adults with an alternative to nursing facility care that is both less expensive and less restrictive. Assisted living residences vary considerably, but most provide meals, housekeeping, laundry, transportation, and social activities. They also offer personal care, such as assistance with eating, bathing, grooming and personal hygiene. Some nursing care is also provided, including medication administration and dressing changes.

In Ohio, the typical "Assisted Living" home is licensed as a Residential Care Facility; many people use the terms interchangeably. The Ohio Department of Health licenses residential care facilities and conducts on-site inspections/surveys for compliance with state rules and regulations.

To determine if assisted living in a Residential Care Facility is a good option for you, contact your Area Agency on Aging and request a free assessment.

Facility Keywords

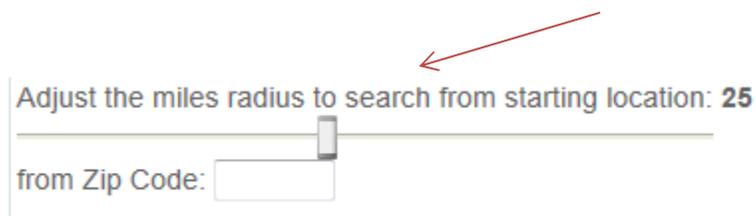

Facility Search by Name: (comma separated)

Note: To create a larger list of results, select fewer search criteria.

The facility search page will allow you to search for a facility by Geography and by the services available in the facility. The Type of facility will already be marked for “Assisted Living (RCF)”. You may wish to search by county, by the city, or by the distance to your zip code.

We recommend you choose one search type at a time – not all three – to ensure you get sufficient responses to review. If you’re in a rural area, start with a county search; in a large city, you may want to start with 5 to 10 miles from your zip code. To search by zip code, simply enter your 5 digit zip code into this box, then drag the marker to the left or right to increase or decrease the distance for your search.

If you have a few homes in mind already, you may wish to enter the names here in the Keyword Search box, separated by a comma. Use few of the words in the name – for instance, type “Happy Hills” for Happy Hills Assisted Living.

The right hand side lists services that the facilities may or may not offer. If a facility has not logged onto the site and entered services, no results will appear if you search by these criteria. Try to choose as few as will help guide your search. Keep in mind, these are services the facility has indicated they offer; verify any information with a home before making decisions about long term care.
